HOOVER BOOM GROWING

Other Candidates Eclipsed By Interest Shown in Him.

PARTY AFFILIATION UNKNOWN

Republicans ganized—Democratic Leader In Doubt.

WASHINGTON — Herbert Hoover has loomed up so large on the political horizon during the past week as measurably to eclipse interest in other presidential possibilities. Dispatches to The Star from its political correspondents in every part of the country show that Hoover is being more discussed today than any other man in either party.

This is due in a considerable measure, no doubt, to the novelty of a situation which sees a man seriously considered for the presidency whose political affiliations are unknown, but there manifestly is a very considerable body of sentiment which not only doesn't know but doesn't care how Hoover may have voted in the past, or whether he ever voted. It is for Hoover because of belief in the man, and it would support him on either the republican or the democratic ticket; and in the event of failure of either to nominate him, it would support him as an independent candidate.

The non-partisan or unpartisan character of the Hoover boom extends even to his home state of California, where during the week thirty prominent citizens, some democrats, but mainly republicans, issued a call to make Hoover the state's favorite son, disregarding the candidacy of Senator Hiram Johnson. A dispatch from San Francisco says belief is held that should Hoover enter the republican primaries he would take the delegation away from Johnson. The dispatch says that California democrats have no other thought but to send a solid Hoover delegation to the democratic national convention.

In New England there are two Hoover booms, running parallel, one republican and the other democratic, and there are indications that back of the boom in both parties are men who were prominent in Hoover's war-time food administration. But the Hoover movement in both parties in New England seems to be meeting obstacles because of lack of knowledge as to his political sympathies. A dispatch from Augusta says Hoover sentiment among the Maine democrats is beginning to cool because of belief that he is a republican and that there is a growing volume of talk favorable to Governor Cox, of Ohio, and Attorney General Palmer, of New Hampshire on the other hand, the Hoover idea seems to have taken firm hold among democrats. A peculiar feature of the New Hampshire situation is that adherents of Senator Poindexter are using the Hoover sentiment among democrats in an effort to make capital for their candidate. They are urging that Gen. Wood, who is strong with New Hampshire republicans could not be elected against Hoover on the democratic ticket and are urging New Hampshire republicans to turn to Poindexter.

In Connecticut a Hoover boom was formally launched by the former state food administrator, a republican, but according to a dispatch from Hartford, hasn't made much headway with the republican rank and file. Connecticut republicans, the dispatch says, still regard the letter Hoover wrote in 1918 supporting President Wilson's demand for a democratic Congress, and the party workers, at least, are not disposed to support any man who has democratic leanings. Connecticut democrats also are strong for party regularity and look askance at Hoover because of his supposed republican tendencies. They are said mainly to take the ground that Attorney General Palmer is good enough for them.

Mr. Hoover's friends are said to be planning an aggressive campaign in his behalf, and there is talk of a nation-wide organization of Hoover-for-President Clubs. But trained political observers doubt that they will be able long to keep away from some definite stand as to party affiliation. The demand is growing more insistent that Hoover shall "declare himself."

Iowa, Hoover's native state, reports a growing sentiment there for him among democrats, word having reached them, from some source not disclosed, that Hoover is an active aspirant for the democratic nomination. A dispatch from Raleigh says Hoover is the only man so far to arouse any enthusiasm among North Carolina democrats, and in other southern states he gets mention along with the "regular" democrats in the consideration of presidential

CITY SPARED FLU
EPIDEMIC—JONES

Co-operation Has Prevented Outbreak of Malady Here.

"Only thru the co-operation of the citizens of Lima in immediately heeding health rules has this city been spared the influenza epidemic which is raging thruout the entire country at this time," Health Commissioner Dr. A. L. Jones announced Saturday night.

There are but seven mild cases of influenza here at this time, according to Heather Jones. These cases are not of the malignant variety and victims are isolated and practically safe from spreading the disease to the general public, Dr. Jones states.

This city has no cause for alarm at this time, the health commissioner says, but warns the citizens that all have cause to prepare against a general spreading of the malady.

The general health situation here is good, Dr. Jones said.

Regarding the health situation here Dr. Jones stated: "The general health of the city is good. Not only are we free from influenza but we are free from grippe and other slight ailments which at this season generally infest the city."

Less than 50 cases of grippe are in the city at this time, health records show, compared to triple that number in former years.

Despite the good fortune of this city to date, Dr. Jones requests every resident receive immediate medical attention when affected by the slightest cold and to remain away from public places whenever troubled with a cough.

COLUMBUS — State Auditor Donahay, in a statement issued late Saturday warned that economy must be exercised by all departments of government if the state is to keep within its income.

February Will Be
Peculiar Month

February, 1920, will be a peculiar month.

February 1 falls on a Sunday as does February 29, the last day of the month.

There will be seven holidays in February—that is, for bankers and others, but for the common workman but five.

There are five Sundays in February and the customary two legal holidays—Abraham Lincoln's birthday and the anniversary of George Washington's birth.

Such a February has not been experienced since 1850, and there will not be a similar one until 1984, statistical fields declare.

Leap year is the reason.

CLEVELAND FACES
COAL SHORTAGE

Situation Is More Acute Than at Any Time During Strike.

CLEVELAND — Due to underproduction, scarcity of coal cars and slowing up of railroad traffic, Cleveland is experiencing a coal shortage, held more acute than at any time during the coal strike.

The local fuel committee is again in charge and Saturday night issued a statement, saying that unless immediate relief is found many manufacturing plants may be forced to suspend activities on Monday. A dozen schools are threatened with suspension.

E. R. Bissell, terminal manager for the railroad administration here, also announced a freight embargo of all shipments except vital necessities within the Cleveland shipping district, effective at midnight Saturday night. An embargo on all freight shipments east is already in effect.

'WHISKEY' ISLAND
MUST PASS

Cleveland Council Will Legislate Against Name of Community.

CLEVELAND — The last mournful rites of the wet era here will be performed soon in the common council chamber when the name Whiskey Island is legislated out of existence.

Whiskey Island is an obstruction formed by the old river bed, a branch of the Cuyahoga river. It supports three buildings. One of them was a saloon in the pre-prohibition days. Such an astonishing amount of whiskey was sold there to the dry old salts that the place was christened Whiskey Island. It is so officially known.

AUTO SHOW OPENS AT CHICAGO

Annual Event Featured By New Models of Popular Makes.

CHICAGO—Automobiles rivaling the most luxuriously furnished private railroad cars for equipment and comfort were on exhibition here last night at the opening of Chicago's Twentieth auto show. The National auto truck display was held in connection with the motor exhibition.

Every make and style of car, from the huge machines designed for the transcontinental tourist to the motor propelled "baby carriage" was on display. Prices ranged up to $11,000.

Agents explained, because of the great demand for autos during the last year, attention was given to greater production instead of designing new models. For this reason, they said, few new styles were brought out.

Thousands of dealers and distributors from all over the country were here for the show crowded Chicago hotels. All of the downtown hotels had the "S. R. O." sign out.

'MISSING HEIRESS'
WRITES LETTER

Another Girl Says She Is Janne De Kay of Chicago.

ATLANTA, Ga.—Miss Jeanne Anna De Kay, missing Chicago heiress, will be in Knoxville, Tenn., next Monday. She so informed the Atlanta police late Saturday, if a letter written in a bold feminine scrawl on a bizzily perfumed stationery, posted in Nashville, is to be believed.

But the police, already baffled in solving the identity of the "girl of mystery," arrested Tuesday while wearing man's clothing, who has given four names, and according to her own admission, is ready to be any body just so she gets out of jail, do not believe the letter was written by the Chicago girl.

The girl held here is an impostor, the letter declared.

"I ran away from Chicago because I was tired of society and wanted to see this part of the world," it reads. "I am having a fine time and lots of fun."

"So don't let the woman you have deceived you. If you want me very bad I will be in Knoxville Monday, so-by-by."

A postscript added that she was leaving for Knoxville at 2 P. M.

Today police were told by "the girl of mystery" that she was Helen Lillian Wiley the bride of a sailor and daughter of Thomas Davies of Morgantown, W. Va. Later she declared that she has not yet given her real name.

BIG YEAR IS PLANNED

Chamber of Commerce Will Engage Expert In Work.

LIVE WIRE FOR PRESIDENT

Great Expansion of Activities and Aid for City.

A new Chamber of Commerce with an expert engaged as secretary at a living salary is planned by the new board of trustees. It was adopted by a member last night.

It is well known that Secretary William H. Clark will no longer serve at the salary which has been paid, in fact, Clark tried to step down and out some time ago, but was persuaded to fill out the year.

George E. Buxly, the automobile distributor and banker; and A. W. Wheatley, of the Investment company which bears his name, and former head of the Locomotive Works, are the two live wires being considered for president of the new Chamber. At the same time a secretary experienced in work of the character desired, will be engaged. This secretary will undoubtedly be brought in from some large city. A tender of the position is said to have been made Austin Potter, but refused. Potter has come forward with long strides and is highly regarded for his pop and godliness.

On the new board in addition to Buxly and Wheatley are S. S. Fishel, representative of the real estate board, Austin Potter, and Wallace King, of the Kiwanis club; R. B. Duna, of the Merchants' association; Edward Arnold and W. J. Dempster, representing labor and the South Side; and Chalmers H. Brown, representative of the manufacturing interests.

Labor is to occupy more of a place in the Chamber than ever before, labor in its broadest sense, trustees say. Much welfare work is already being done in the factories, and every effort is to be made by employers in Lima to get capital and labor in closer relation, each realizing that they have exactly the same interests. Employers will, during the year, lend aid, it is said, to any of their men wishing to buy homes for it is a city of homes, that is desired for Lima.

The plans of the new Chamber will be for a membership of 1,000 members. The annual dues will be placed technically at $20, but a new feature will also be introduced, whereby factories and employers will also be assessed on the basis of the number of men employed, this fund to be used for expansion, a trustee said.

A series of luncheons may also be arranged, bringing together the membership at least every fortnight for a brief, snappy luncheon hour and every quarter an evening plate dinner. All classes of members are desired, it is claimed, and especially will an effort be made to select workers in the mills and on the rails so that every phase of life can come up with a spokesman there capable of giving the angle needed, whether he be banker or a boilermaker.

The new chamber is to be a live, breathing unit of business, this trustee said to The News. "Lima is going forward as never before and when we get power and water and turn to manufacturing gas instead of depending upon the limited supply of natural, there will be nothing to keep us from reaching 100,000."

CAPTURE BAD 'RED'
IN TOLEDO

Finally Arrested After Being Chased Across Atlantic.

TOLEDO — After being chased across England, thence to Canada and finally into the United States after eluding intelligence authorities, Mike Soloviev, 26, Russian anarchist, was caught by United States secret agents here and now awaits hearing in deportation. Scotland Yard was after Soloviev. He is a violent anarchist of the most virulent doctrines and his very speeches were too radical even for the Communists who shunned him. In a recent Communist meeting here he made a speech which caused the meeting to break up in an uproar.

A telegraphic warrant in deportation has been received from Washington.

Soloviev escaped from Canadian police after being arrested.

"Participation in parliamentary campaigns, which in the general struggle of the proletariat is of secondary importance, is for the purpose revolutionary propaganda only."

"The conquest of the power of the state is accomplished by the mass power of the proletariat. Political mass strikes are a vital factor in developing this mass power, preparing the working classes for the conquest of capitalism."

By the now world-renowned Ibanex, announced to start in The Sunday News today, has been delayed thru revised translation from the Spanish. It is expected to be ready for release on Sunday, February 8th.

THOUSANDS FACE
DEPORTATION

Ruling of Secretary Wilson Will Speed Radicals Round-Ups.

COMMUNIST PARTY MEMBERS

Says Organization Is Society to Destroy U. S. Government.

WASHINGTON — Secretary Wilson of the labor department late Saturday issued a clear cut ruling branding the Communist party of America as a revolutionary society seeking to destroy the United States government by force.

The United States Immigration laws, Wilson pointed out, make it mandatory for the secretary of labor to deport all alien members of societies organized to overthrow the government by force.

The ruling is expected to affect many of 3,000 aliens now under arrest at Ellis Island and thruout the United States. Most of them are charged with being members of the Communist party.

It indicates that the government will continue its policy of wholesale raids on radicals started by Attorney General Palmer, unless the courts intervene.

Palmer has still warrants for approximately 2,000 aliens which are unserved.

Following the issuance of the ruling, Anthony Caminetti, commissioner general of immigration, declared he is proceeding as quickly as possible with hearings of the cases of the 3,000 radicals under arrest.

Wilson's ruling was handed down on the appeal of Egebert Preis, 31, Austrian, who crossed into the United States at Port Huron, Mich., November 13, 1915. Preis, Wilson pointed out, admitted membership in the Communist party and its affiliations with the Communist international. Wilson cited the law as follows:

"Aliens who are members of or affiliated with any organization that entertains a belief in, teaches or advocates overthrow by force or violence of the government of the United States shall, upon warrant of the secretary of labor, be taken into custody and deported in the manner provided in the immigration act of February 15, 1917."

Department of Justice officials at the hearing before Wilson, submitted as evidence pledge cards signed by members of the Communist party and copies from the party's constitution or manifesto. Secretary Wilson cited excerpts from these documents in his ruling to show why he decided the party is revolutionary as well as political. Some of the excerpts cited follow:

"Communism does not propose to 'capture' the bourgeois parliamentary state, but to conquer and destroy it."

"Participation in parliamentary campaigns, which in the general struggle of the proletariat is of secondary importance, is for the purpose revolutionary propaganda only."

MANY CITIES
NEED HELP

U. S. Public Health Service Issues Warning.

RESTRICTIONS IN NEW YORK

One of Every Hundred Person in Chicago Ill.—East Hard Hit.

WASHINGTON—The wave of influenza has spread thru practically the entire country, according to the United States public health service Saturday night.

Latest advices to the health service headquarters here Saturday night, showed that the malady is spreading in 20 states.

The health service's organization of doctors and nurses is being held in readiness at strategic points in all parts of the country to be hurried to any spot where the disease appears likely to get out of hand. To date, it was said at headquarters here, no calls for help have been received.

NEW YORK — Drastic steps to stop the spread of influenza were taken tonight at an emergency meeting of the board of health.

Meeting with theatrical men, department store owners and officials of the street railway companies, the board adopted regulations establishing specific hours for the conduct of business and the operation of theaters.

With the exception of banks and government offices the schedule establishes opening and closing hours for all industries, commercial and professional organizations and theaters in order to avoid congestion and crowded cars during the rush hours.

Opening and closing hours for department stores, office buildings and industrial concerns range from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m.; 8:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m.; 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

At intervals of 30 minutes from 7 p. m. until 9 p. m. the theaters will be allowed to open.

Along with the regulations, the city health officials issued appeals for help from nurses, doctors, clergymen and the general public.

Nurses were asked to volunteer for service at a rate of six dollars a day. Doctors, to help overcome the shortage of nurses, were asked to urge patients not to ask for trained nurses until absolutely necessary.

The appeal to clergymen asked to sound a warning tomorrow against the danger of coughing and sneezing in public, without covering the nose and mouth with a handkerchief.

To the public the appeal was made to take no chances, to observe the rules of the simple life and to go to bed and call a doctor if feverish.

CHICAGO — Health authorities here were battling an epidemic of influenza, which, they said, threatened Saturday night to reach the proportions attained by the disease a year ago.

New cases were reported at the rate of approximately 2,000 a day during the entire week.

More than 1,000 cases were reported from the Great Lakes naval training station.

Industrial Chicago was crippled by the disease. Health authorities estimated 10 per cent of the workers of the city stricken.

Fifty members of the traffic policemen squad are being stricken daily, Chief of Police Garrity stated.

CLEVELAND — Comparatively few cases of influenza were reported in Ohio Saturday night.

Cleveland's quota was placed at 27, with no deaths.

Canton, 474.
Toledo, 129.
Columbus, 75.

In Cleveland the health authorities ordered the mobilization of all nurses and made effective orders for extraordinary precautions to prevent an epidemic.

All state health boards are enlisting all local boards in a prevention campaign.

NEW YORK — John Barrymore, actor, and Pasquale Amato, opera singer, are among the 2,361 new cases of influenza reported in the last 24 hours. Their condition was said not to be serious.

The health department reported 33 deaths from influenza and 90 from pneumonia in 24 hours. In the same period there were 364 new cases of pneumonia.

WESTFIELD, N. Y. — Half of this town is sick with the "flu" and two deaths were recorded today. The local health officials have called upon the state to send some immediate assistance. The doctors say there must be more than 1500 cases, some of a serious nature.

When Clinton Moore, aged 35, died this afternoon, he left a wife and three children, all sick abed.

This morning Ray Howard aged 46, died. Both were in the automobile business.

The large Welch Grape Juice plant is not expected to open Monday; unless the situation changes materially for the better.

FUNERAL OF NOTED AUTHOR TUESDAY

Body of Cyrus Townsend Will Be Buried at Yonkers, N. Y.

NEW YORK—Funeral of Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady, clergyman and author, who died of pneumonia Saturday at his home in Yonkers, will be held here Tuesday afternoon, with interment at Yonkers.

Brady's wife and two daughters, Margaret and Catherine, were at his bedside. Another daughter and three sons, Mrs. Theodore M. Gleason, Port Washington, L. I., Cyrus Townsend Jr., Buenos Aires, Major Sidney G. U. S. A., Louisville and Esmond B. Harvard University, survive.

Dr. Brady was born in Allegheny, Pa., 68 years ago and was graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy in 1883. He left the service of the Missouri Pacific and Union Pacific railways after several years to study theology. He served as an Episcopal clergyman in churches in Missouri, Kansas, Philadelphia, Toledo and New York. He was chaplain of the First Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry in the Spanish war. He was twice married.

At the time of his death Dr. Brady was working on a series of short stories. He wrote a number of historical and religious volumes, a motion picture scenario, and a biography of John Paul Jones. His latest published novel was "The Man Who Won."

Among his known books are "For Love of Country," "American Fights and Fighters," "The Southerners," "The Island of Regeneration," and "When The Sun Stood Still."

HOOVER BOOM IS GROWING

timber. From all parts of the country—New England, the middle west, the south and the Pacific states—come evidence that a very potent element in the Hoover strength is the belief that he would prove a popular candidate with the women voters.

Hoover boomers are not losing sight of the fact that once he comes into the open as a candidate many guns now silent will be trained on him. As food administrator he made enemies as well as friends, and any of those enemies still have bitterness in their souls. Among his enemies is a very large body of American farmers, who believe he was instrumental in preventing their getting a higher price for wheat. Either party which should nominate Hoover, it is indicated by reports, would have to reckon with an adverse farmer vote—how extensively adverse there is no way of telling.

On the republican side of the pre-convention campaign the week has seen steady progress in the organization of candidates, the situation being that it still is a case of the field against General Leonard Wood. Of those contending against Wood, Gov. Lowden, of Illinois, is regarded today as having the best chance of beating him under the wire, tho it is admitted by those holding this view that they have their better on the "tactical" or "practical" aspects of the case, disregarding sentiment and psychology. They hold to the view that the Wood movement has reached high-water mark, for the present at least, and that Lowden is in the most favorable position for making the next spurt. They claim that there is a very large body of sentiment for him throughout the south, that he has substantial strength both east and west and that even in states which are counted sure for Wood he is a popular second choice.

This, in a general way, is the view taken by N. O. Messenger, The Star's political specialist, in his weekly review of the situation, and it is supported by the budget of weekly dispatches from political correspondents. Senator Harding, who is reported sure of a solid Ohio delegation, despite efforts of other candidates to hunt on his preserves, and other republican aspirants get favorable mention in numerous states, but Wood and Lowden undoubtedly have held the republican spotlight during the week.

Mention of democratic candidates other than Hoover as possibilities still is scattering. A dispatch from Columbia, reports South Carolina democrats as ready to support Bryan and Jacksonville sends word that the stock of Senator Oscar Underwood is picking up in Florida. Okla. woman democrats are to hold a convention January 27 and are expected to endorse the presidential candidacy of Senator Owen, and democrats in Pennsylvania are busy lining up a solid delegation for Mitchell Palmer.

But lack of knowledge as to what the man in the White House wants still is a wet blanket over democratic activities.

Girls, Look! Here's Chance To Get Man Of Your Choice And Good Start

Just Ask Him, Then Get Married and Receive Presents.

HOW COULD HE RESIST THIS?

Watch the News for Interesting Announcements Soon.

Here's the opportunity of a life time for some far sighted maid or maiden of Lima, or Allen county, to get the high cost of living—and living—and start out on the path of matrimony better off in the goods of this world than lots and lots of couples who have been wed numbers of years.

In these times of equal rights, of votes for women and the elevation of the gentler sex to the same plane as man, this Leap Year, 1920, has particular and significance to woman. There are hundreds of young folks—and some not so young, too—who have been planning to marry "sometime" when "we have more money." But, for one reason or another, that golden "sometime" never has come and they have just drifted on, wishing and waiting for "something to turn up."

Now "something" has turned up. A number of the merchants, business houses and firms of Lima are going to make up a long list of presents, consisting of some cash, of household goods, or food, or articles of wearing apparel and other useful things, which they are going to give to the first couple which makes application to be wed upon the stage of the Orpheum theatre at 9:30 o'clock the night of Friday, February 6—the first Friday in the first week of the first February that has lasted twenty-nine whole days in four long years.

EVEN LICENSE IS FREE
Even the minister, or the justice of the peace, whichever the contracting parties may prefer, is going to perform the ceremony free and it's a ten to one shot that Judge Becker will dig down in his pockets for the price of the marriage license. But if he doesn't, someone else will, so even the license won't cost anything.

Now, then, both men and women, and firms who and which are going to offer these presents, to the couple which seizes this great opportunity to get married without cost, are doing this to encourage the foundation of homes and to direct the thought of the folks of this county to the fact that it's time to get married—especially the women. Furthermore, they regard this as a particularly physiological advantage, because of the campaign now being conducted in the interest of thrift. They believe that with the responsibilities of wife and husband at home, and the thought that is centered upon such things by this means, that some good will be accomplished in this direction, too.

ORPHEUM TO CELEBRATE, TOO
And the Orpheum theatre, to celebrate the coming of Leap Year and particularly the first week in February, is going to present four extraordinary jubilee vaudeville bills—two for the week starting Monday and two for the week starting February 2. And the Orpheum not only is going to make a very substantial cash donation to the happy newweds, and also is going to give a generous supply of tickets so that they can help to make their early married life more worth the living by attending the theatre at least once a week for many weeks to come.

So, if you want to get married and to beat the high cost of living and of loving, just clip out this application and mail it, or bring it to the editor of the Lima Daily News, or to the box office of the Orpheum theatre. Each application will be marked with the exact time it is received and to the very first one that comes in will go all of the handsome gifts that are to be offered.

Don't wait for something to turn up, girls. Something has turned up and opportunity is knocking upon your door—the chance of a life time to start your married life with cash in the bank, money in your pocket, groceries in the kitchen, clothes in the closet, furniture in the house.

And watch the Lima Daily News for the publication of the list of presents in a few days. Don't be afraid to send in the application, your name will not be used unless you are the lucky one.

But you'll have to act QUICK. Clip it the minute it says "Yes."

C. of C. Plan Session to Arrange Here Memorial.

Allen county's memorial to soldier boys who gave their lives in the recent world war will take on new meaning, at a meeting of the committee, to be held at the Chamber of Commerce next Wednesday night. The committee, at a recent session, recommended a hospital to be erected as a lasting tribute to those who yielded up their all in the conflict. Selection of the place of the memorial, the amount to be expended, the means of securing the funds and such matters will be discussed at the meeting. Carl Griebing, chairman of the committee, stated Saturday night.

W. H. Clarke, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, is secretary of the committee, which numbers about 25.

Three hundred couples danced at the Memorial Hall Friday night at the jazz party given under the direction of the Lima Band. Two orchestras of "regular" musicians and jazz artists furnished the music. Forty instruments were included in the first orchestra. Twenty-five were numbered in the jazz orchestra. CRIME WANES IN ALLEN COUNTY

Greater Population. But Fewer Bad Ones Cable Says.

With a rapid increase in population, crime in the city has materially decreased. This was the opinion of Prosecutor John L. Cable in his annual report for 1919 to the board of commissioners of Allen county. The report was filed Saturday.

The report shows that fewer persons were confined in the county jail for state crime than in previous years.

Cable prosecuted successfully 85 criminal cases with the loss of two in which convictions could not be obtained.

No indictments drawn in 1919 by three grand juries that were held to be defective by the court.

In addition to the criminal cases Cable has appeared in the interest of the county and state in numerous civil cases.

The prosecutor is the legal advisor of all county and township officials, board of health, rural board of education, trustees of the Children's Home, cemetery association and the board of education.

He prepared 65 written opinions on behalf of these clients during 1919.

Figures in Cable's report show that $5,800 was collected for the support of abandoned minor children and aged, infirm or destitute parents in 1919. The fund thus collected by order of common pleas court was turned over to trustees for such persons. The number of children cared for in this manner reaches approximately 200 and aged parents total close to 100.

CABLE TO CARRY CASE HIGHER

Will Seek Support of Appellate Court in Allen Trial.

Prosecutor John L. Cable will seek an opinion of the court of appeals in the recent suit of the state against Irene Allen, indicted for keeping a house of ill fame, he said Saturday.

The progress was acquitted Thursday when Judge Klinger, common pleas court, took the case from a jury and directed a verdict of no cause of action.

Cable announced Saturday he will carry the case to the higher court asking he be substantiated in his claim that the lower court had erred in dismissing the suit.

The prosecutor declared that the woman could not be re-tried on the same charge.

In his statement he said he wished only to have the moral support of the higher bench. This, if a favorable decision is handed down will constitute the future course in suits of this kind, Cable said.

INTEREST HIGH IN SCHOOL MEMORIAL

Honor Night of St. Rose Promises to Be Big Event.

Interest in the proposed memorial of the St. Rose alumni to the three Lima boys, members of the Association—Edward Veasey, Paul Gallagher and Henry Mullen—is shown in the phenomenal sale of tickets thru the members and the school children. The experience of the week indicates that Memorial hall on the date fixed for the recital, February 12th, will be used to its capacity and patriotic Limes have ever since the close of the war evidenced a lively interest in any enterprise that had for its object a tribute to the heroes who died on the field of battle.

This will constitute the first permanent memorial—a handsome library in which the records of the boys fighting, the details of battles in which all Lima boys were engaged, and other valuable data will be available to readers.

The artists who will be heard on the occasion—Agnes Kuntz Dederich, soprano, and Miss Loretta M. Long, the latter a former Lima girl—are both exceedingly popular with the music loving public. They have appeared in aristocratic Oak Park, Chicago, during the past week. His audience and have return dates there early in February antedating their Lima appearances. James J. Rogers, of Cleveland, artist-organist, composer and Music Editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, two of whose compositions were heard on the Women's Music Club program of last Thursday, says of Miss Dederich: "A very charming singer, with a lovely voice and much intelligence in interpretation." Mrs. J. R. Longworth, president of the Women's Music Club made a formal announcement of the concert date and commended it at the Matinee Recital of that organization, on Thursday afternoon. The Executive committee of which E. J. Gallagher is president will meet on Monday evening to consider important matters in connection with the coming affair.

"COPS" PREPARING FOR BIG BALL

Affair This Year Expected to Eclipse All Previous Ones.

This slippery weather is just the thing for the local coppers.

The bluecoats go waiting over the ice-coated sidewalks in dreamy fashion and relish the sensation.

There's a reason, however, for this lack of grumbling on the part of the policemen as the guardians of peace for the most part dislike the slippery weather.

But this time it's different. The boys are now all excited over the coming Policeman's ball at Memorial Hall on February 12 and are making use of the icy pavements to try out the steps which they intend to execute on the highly polished floor the night of the big hop.

Every one on the police force from Chief Ronski to Turnkey, Al Vinegar, is beginning to picture himself on the night of that big jazz party.

The boys will all be on deck if possible and those on the night beats on February 12 will be a sorry lot. Police Chief Ronski says, "The policeman's ball will not only be the biggest event in the history of the local patrolmen but will be one of the big dances of the year."

Committeemen in charge of the affair report things moving "jazzily." Indications are that a record breaking crowd will be on hand when the first grain from Mack's twelve-piece orchestra first fill the air of Memorial Hall.

Among the other features of the ball will be renditions by the Silver City quartet, solos and other entertainments.

MORE EQUIPMENT NOW NEEDED

Van Natta Says He Is Handicapped—Meeting Here Soon.

Allen county's farm bureau has been operated and its offices equipped on $175 the past year.

Such was the statement Saturday of L. S. Van Natta, county farm agent. That does not include Van Natta's salary. The position is paid by the state.

The office is handicapped by lack of a typewriter and mimeograph and such necessities which make office work expedient and proficient.

Yet County Agent Van Natta has not allowed poor equipment in his office and the fact he had so little money to spend to block his efforts to aid the farmers.

On February 10, a meeting of the farm bureau will be held at 10 o'clock at the offices in Memorial building, at which time amendment to the constitution will be considered to raise the membership rate from $1 a year to $1.50.

In case the new rate is allowed, the Ohio Farm Bureau federation will conduct the campaign for membership in Allen county. The funds secured from members will be turned over to the federation to secure new members.

At the present time the farm bureau has 503 members, 252 of which are in good standing. Farm Agent Van Natta believes farmers will welcome the change, because the bureau can accomplish much more than in the past and will gladly take out membership therein.

STAGE SET FOR MINSTRELS

Industrial Show Completes Last Rehearsal.

Rehearsals for the Industrial Minstrel, a jazz-band frolic in Dixie, have been completed and the show is declared to equal many now on the road at the present time. All performers are local residents.

The minstrels will be presented at Memorial hall, Thursday and Friday evenings, January 29 and 30. The first part consists of high class ballads, typical jazz numbers and clever dancing to the first part. The closing number will be, "A Night at the Club."

There has been a large advance sale of tickets. Reserve seat sale will open next Wednesday morning. Tickets are on sale at all the industrial plants and the Y. M. C. A.

The object of the minstrels is to secure funds, to put on an industrial, social and educational program in Lima. The money is all to revert to the people in a philanthropic way.

Among the numbers secured is Scotty Gaudin, who will give a Scotch bag-pipe act. He will appear in kilts.

LOGAN COUNTY HOME OF TWO OLD-WORLD-STYLE CASTLES

Logan county, situated on the great watershed and with its fertile valleys and rugged hills, is the home of two famous castles, modeled after those along the Rhine, Logan county, too, is really the roof of the state, as it contains the highest point of land therein, known as Campbell's Mill. From it a tall flag staff proudly flounds the Stars and Stripes.

These castles are about a mile apart, on Machochee creek, several miles east of West Liberty, Ohio, but within walking distance.

They were the delight of the Platts and of James Whitcomb Riley in their time not so far in the past. It was at the home of Don Platt on the banks of Machochee creek that Riley composed his rural thysody, "When the Frost is on the Pumpkin and the Fodder's in the Shock."

The Sanders Platt castle is first seen. The Don Platt castle is a mile to the east of Sanders Platt's castle. Colonel Don Platt's residence is known as Machochee castle. Sanders Platt's residence is simply called Platt's castle. There is a constant pilgrimage in the summer months to the two Platt castles.

Don Platt was a descendant of the persecuted French Huguenots. They left their mother country on account of religious persecution.

General Sanders Platt's castle is of limestone, with the interior finish of natural walnut, cherry, ash and native woods. The architect of the structure, a relative of Sanders Platt, inherited the castle and is now the caretaker. The castle is a great treasure trove of relics.

The caretaker generally keeps open house to the constant stream of tourists who tramp about the beautiful grounds or wander through the spacious halls and large rooms with their old furnishings.

There recently the walls resounded with the happy strains of youthful laughter as of old on the occasion of a reception and dance in honor of grandson, of the present caretaker and owner, who had just returned from lengthy service on the far-flung battle line in France.

Cuts above are pictures of the two old castles near West Liberty, Ohio, modeled after those built along the Rhine. To the left is Colonel Don Platt's castle, where James Whitcomb Riley wrote his famous rural poem, "When the Frost is on the Pumpkin and the Fodder's in the Shock". To the right is General Sanders Platt's castle, which is a treasure trove of relics, many of which were brought back by a grand-son of the caretaker, a soldier in the world war.

With him, the soldier boy brought back from the war-torn mother country many relics of the world war which are kept on display in a great case with treasures of other wars in which his ancestors took such prominent part.

One is especially interesting. Having captured a German officer in a personal conflict, the young American victor received as his reward the belt of the captured officer. On the belt the German warriors, as had his ancestors done, no doubt, had affixed the insignia which he had torn from the uniforms of those unfortunate enough to fall into the hands of the Hun during the previous four years preceding his own capture.

These insignia cover the wide-leather belt from which the captured soldiers came. There is the insignia of the "Manchester Guards," the "Canadians," the French, the New Zealanders and many others.

The ceilings of the spacious rooms are decorated with paintings in colors as fresh apparently as when applied decades ago, and again reminding the visitor of the magnificent ceilings of the Versailles Palace.

All about are paintings and engravings illustrating the novels and poems written by the Platts who were men and women of talent in many directions.

Outside of the castle, to the west are the ruins of the conservatory which once adjoined the main structure. Along the north side runs an old moat, with the ruins of a little bridge. In fancy one may see the moat full of water and the bridge withdrawn and the enemy vainly striving to gain admittance to the castle.

About two miles to the eastward from the Sanders Platt castle is that of Don Platt. The beauty of Machochee valley from the castle is incomparable. Tom Corwin, the great Ohio orator, said of the scene from the castle: "A man better live and die here than in any place I have ever seen."

On the road leading from the castle to Urbana are the ruins of the old log Catholic church where four generations of the pious Platts worshipped. Near the remains of the old church is the tomb of the wife of Don Platt.

The story of their courtship and marriage is one of romance. Miss Louise Kirby was the talented daughter of Timothy Kirby, a staunch Whig and wealthy banker of Cincinnati, whose bank was closed by President Andrew Jackson in the days when partisan feeling ran very high.

Colonel Don Platt was a zealous young Whig, whose attentions to the young lady of poetic talent were highly resented and sternly forbidden by the old Whig. With the aid of a relative of Don Platt's who was clerk of the Hamilton County Court at Cincinnati, a license was procured and the marriage ceremony was performed by Archbishop Purcell at the Catholic Cathedral in Cincinnati. The bride then returned to her home and the groom boarded the train for Machochee. Some six weeks afterwards the marriage was discovered by the late Elder Kirby, who unhesitatingly turned the young married couple out to shift for themselves. The life of privation and hardship which followed was more than the delicately reared young woman could stand and the reconciliation of father and daughter and son-in-law was hardly consummated when the daughter returned to her old home, where she soon died.

In Howe's History of Ohio he pays the following tribute to Mrs. Platt: "Her brief life was beautiful in the charm of sense and sensibility that were ever a part of and about her like a rose-scented atmosphere, heavy with the perfume of flowers. She was not only a brilliant conversationalist, but a fascinating one as well, for she won the sympathy as well as admiration of her hearers. There was in her manner a strange mixture of shyness with a frank way that was winning. A fine linguist, she lived in the English classic with a boy, but made her skin to the genius. Her contributions to literature were not great, but enough to prove the excellence she might have achieved had her life been spared. She had to perfection a rare quality in women and that was a keen sense of humor. Material for the facts contained in this story and photographs of the old castle were gathered recently while Service Director Elmer McClain was on a speaking trip at West Liberty. He visited the old castles and had the pleasure of a trip over the artistic grounds.

CREW OF STALLED STEAMER SAFE

Four Members Plow Through Eight Miles of Ice to Get Food.

TOBACCO SHORTAGE FELT

Seamen Are Enjoying Life on Ice-Bound Ship.

CHICAGO — Tales of polar privations and arctic exploits within reach of the Luxuries of America's second city were told here Saturday night by four crew members of the Sidney O. Neff, ice-bound, eight miles out.

The Neff, now known as the "M. C. and M. C. Number 2" was caught in the ice more than a week ago. For a week while the ice bound the boat more tightly, raising its water line a foot or more, the crew of 12 stayed below, amusing itself with greasy decks of cards, conversation and tobacco. It was the disappearance of the tobacco that caused the polar expedition Saturday when the wheelman Edward "Red" Paulus Hanson, George Duncan and Con Carmody crept over eight miles of ice.

The quartet got its tobacco and loaded itself down with groceries to appeal to their companions who were tiring of bacon and beans.

Strand and his crew of three, looped together and carrying boat hooks for Alpine staves, actually walked fourteen miles in covering the eight between the boat and the shore, they said. Every step was felt out with the hooks before a foot was advanced. Once Hanson slipped to his waist in mush ice, but was jerked out safely. To add to their difficulties snow drifts had formed, causing the adventurers to go far out of their way or plow heavily thru the soft piles.

The Neff was stalled while enroute from Milwaukee to Chicago. For several days life savers watched the boat and guessed at the plight of the men aboard.

Much of the time it snowed and communication was impossible. Imagining they saw signs of distress, the life savers started several expeditions afoot and by ice-breaking tugs. All failed. Schemes to dispatch aeroplanes fell thru. Pilots did not care to risk a smash on the ice or a wintry bath in the lake if the boat was not in extreme distress.

"The old tub never did roll so bad before as a week ago Tuesday night," Paulus Hanson said. "Every wave was rolling ice in toward shore too. Early in the morning wind struck north to north of Chicago and we got slower and slower. Finally we just tumbled outside the harbor buoy and let the ice pile up. We had plenty to eat, but no variety. We were most afraid of being crushed in the ice and there was almost a panic when it froze hard and timbers began to crack."

Hanson said there was plenty of coal to keep the crew warm all winter.

Paulus Hanson now is the chief of the

BLAST ORIGIN

May Announce Origin of Store Explosion Soon.

Cause of the explosion at the Acorter and Blackburn Hardware store, 210 east Market street several weeks ago, which resulted in damage of approximately $10,000 and injury to five persons, will if possible be determined by Fire Chief Mack this week according to present indications.

Delay in conducting investigation to determine cause of the blast was caused thru serious condition of J. W. Blackburn, which prevented Chief Mack from discussing the explosion with the injured man. Early this week, Chief Mack believes physicians will allow Blackburn to be questioned.

Mack declared Saturday that he had no knowledge of the cause of the blast.

J. D. Agertter, part owner of the damaged concern Saturday said that in his belief ignition of sewer gas was the cause of the blast.

Repairs on the building are well on way to completion. Agertter said Saturday, and business is being conducted as usual.

Within several weeks the entire front of the building which was demolished by the blast will be reconstructed. Agertter stated.

WEAR ROSE TODAY FOR NURSES

That's the Way States Pay Tribute to War Workers

Are you wearing a rose today? It's the thing to do. Reason? Today is Nurse's Day. In honor of the work of nurses during the World War and their activities before and after that period Sunday has been set aside to observe with respect the "sisters of mercy."

Nurses at the City Hospital and St. Rita's will wear roses today in honor of the event.

The movement has been inaugurated in half of the states of the Union. Local Red Cross Chapter have nothing planned to especially observe the day. The setting aside this day has not been proclaimed officially by Governor Cox. Hence the lack of celebration on the part of the local chapter.

IMPOSSIBLE NOW TO ADD CARS

Dugan Says Company Cannot Afford New Equipment.

Mayor Burkhardt's protest to James B. Dugan, manager of the Ohio Electric against the present street car service may be forced to go unheeded, Dugan said Saturday.

Under the present rate of fares and an inability to add to the present equipment cars will remain crowded, and schedules disrupted he said.

Dugan declared that the car company was unable to buy new equipment or supplement the present number of cars with any more from the Grand avenue yards. All cars it present owned by the company in Lima are in operation. Dugan stated it was an impossibility to get more.

The resident manager characterized the service maintained in Lima as being better than many cities over the state with a greater population and a higher rate of fare. He cited instances where 15 minute schedules were being maintained in several cities at a rate of 7 cents.

Lima is paying a 4 cent fare he said.

Weather conditions at the present time play a large part in the service Dugan said.

More passengers are riding the cars now than at any other time of the year. Cold weather and snow hold down the schedule by forcing slower operation of cars and longer stops at street crossings for loading and unloading he said.

Burkhardt stated in his letter that cars were held up at railroad crossings. Dugan declared that this was beyond the control of his company.

Sanitation in the city cars was the best that could be had in view of the present weather conditions, Dugan stated. It was impossible he said to keep the cars in any other condition when a large number of different passengers were requiring varied degrees of ventilation. Crews instructed by city superintendent and inspectors to keep the cars in the cleanest possible condition, he said.

Dugan said that he would answer Burkhardt's protest within a few days.

Funeral services for Richard Tremper, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Tremper, 784 South Metcalf street, will be held Tuesday at two o'clock at Bethany Lutheran church. Rev. W. C. Spayde will officiate and interment will be at Woodlawn.

It is unwise to neglect such symptoms, when a few doses of Balmwort Tablets can be taken for relief. Love and Married Life

JOHN DISAPPROVES

SOON after Mrs. Gordon had gone downstairs I heard her excited voice over the phone.

"She's talking to John," I thought to myself, and I was sure of it a few moments after, when I was called to my phone to hear John exclaim very roughly:

"What's this mother has been telling me about you, Katherine? Have you been running around with Helen Van Ness?"

His tone and manner angered me beyond measure. "John, I will not quarrel or discuss personal matters with you over the phone. Nor will I allow you to speak to me in that tone of voice. I'm your wife."

And in my rage I hung up the receiver.

It seemed only an instant before it rang again. For a time I paid no attention to it, but the jangle was so incessant that I finally said, "Hello!"

"You may think this is very smart, my lady, for you know very well that I can't ride around this town and come over to the house without getting every confounded reporter in the city on my heels. But you had better heed what I say."

"What are you going to do about it, John?"

There was an incoherent angry sputter at the other end of the wire, which I interrupted, saying: "When you can speak to me in a gentlemanly manner, John, please again. Meanwhile, I must go ahead with my packing."

"Packing? asking? What are you packing?"

With great impatience I answered the phone again shortly, but instead of John's angry tones it was Bobby's suave voice that came floating to me over the wire.

"I have the tickets, Katherine, and the stateroom, but you'll have to hurry, for your train leaves in about an hour. This will get you late into Atlantic City rather late, but you two girls won't mind that, I guess."

"That's very kind of you, Bobby. Please tell Helen how much I owe you."

Willing to Pay Expenses

"Oh, that's all right. I'm so glad that Helen is going to be with you while I am gone that I wish you would let me pay your expenses. You can keep the money, then, that John gives you and buy some jewelry or a gown."

"No, I think I'll pay my own way, Bobby, for you know I don't care particularly for jewelry, and just imagine how 'poor little me' would look in a Paquin gown."

"I don't know anything about French gowns, my dear, but you made me wish the other day, that I

Note the above illustration, an Abnormal "Crooked" Spine.

A Norman Spine is the greatest asset to man today. It is almost a sure sign that you have good health, good elimination, good Mind and Body.

All of these are necessary in order that we may be a Success in Life.

The Spine controls the Nervous System, the Health Governing System of Man; and when there is an obstruction within the spine, a spinal displacement, that Man, Woman or Child is Not free from Sickness; Not immune to disease, and is susceptible to any epidemic or Malady that might be disastrous to the body.

The Nervous System controls every action of every organ and tissue within the body; and when it becomes obstructed thru pressure within the spine your Muscles become paralyzed, organs become inactive and your mind is befogged.

The Spinal Segments (Vertebrae) are movable, and if displaced even though to a slight degree, resultant of a jolt, fall, twist or blow, the displacement of the vertebrae causes pressure on the Spinal Nerves and the result is inactivity of the organs and tissues affected. Disease is only a functional disturbance of the organs and tissues of the body.

Clinical Statistics report that in 95% of our bodily ailments, sickness, disease is caused by pressure on the Spinal Nerves as they leave the Spine.

Can you not see the vital part the SPINE plays in the Maintenance of Health in the body, when it controls the Health System, the Nervous System of your body?

What kind of a success will you be if your Nerves are "All Worn Out"?

Your Success will be Failure if you do not have Good Health, and a Good Sound Mind and Body.

A well balanced Nervous System is what gives Thomas Edison a Clear Mind and good body in order that he may be the Master of his work and art.

You dare not be a Weakling, an Invalid, a Public menace. It is your duty to Your Country, Your Family and Yourself to keep a healthy Mind and Body.

When the Nervous Break occurs you usually make a mistake by taking a tonic. Don't make that mistake. A tonic only gives you a temporary kick, speeds up your nerves just the same as you can make a "fagged out" horse "speed up" by towing him behind an auto.

Daily there comes people to me for Chiropractic Adjustments who have been addicted to the use of Tonics that have given them no relief. No Health. You can profit by their experience.

Fortunately Chiropractic and the scientific methods such as I practice have obtained the results which they desired in 95% of their cases.

Your case is no worse—can be no worse than hundreds of others that are being benefitted daily with health thru the Scientific, Harmless and Effective Chiropractic Adjustment such as I practice.

Even though your case may have been pronounced incurable by others there is a probability in you obtaining health thru my Chiropractic Adjustment which deals "directly" with the CAUSE of Disease. Remember, that Disease is caused by pressure on the Spinal Nerves due to a displaced vertebrae in the Spine.

My Chiropractic Adjustment is recommended and used exclusively in the largest Chiropractic Clinic in the world, i. e., Palmer Clinics and Palmer School of Chiropractic of which I am a graduate.

could match that diamond and emerald pendant you were wearing, for Helen. Where did John get it? I think I'll bring her one from the west."

"I don't know where he got it, but I don't care for it at all," I said, "and seldom wear it."

I shall never wear it again I said to myself, as I said "good-bye" to Bobby, and hastened to finish packing and dressing.

Again the telephone interrupted my activities, and Alice's voice said anxiously:

"Katherine, is it really true that you and Helen Gaylord are going somewhere for an indefinite stay?"

"Yes, sister."

"Both John and mother have been calling me up and frantically imploring me to insist that you should not

PEDDLERS WARNED

Clerk Heffner Says Licenses Must Be Secured

Local peddlers had better hurry up and get their 1932 licenses, James Heffner, who issues the licenses to local men, said Saturday.

"The peddlers here have been slow in securing their new tags. All must have them by January 27," Heffner warns.

As has been the custom of the city

In former years no licenses will be issued in 1932 to transient merchants of any variety, Heffner says. By this policy the city hopes to keep from Lima undesirable peddlers and to allow the local peddlers privilege of selling the local public.

Thru the exclusion of foreign peddlers from this city in 1919, police say, the theft list was lowered considerably. It is hoped that similar results will be obtained the present year.

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Why cannot we revive the old query made famous by Hon. Chas. Evans Hughes back in — oh let us see — wasn't it 1916? Recollect that question which was flaunted to the breeze on banners and held before the populace on every billboard.

"After the war — What?" Yes, what, indeed? We'll bite. What? Perhaps there are many persons who will join in the same question as they wonder and muse and ponder over when the state of war will end, when they will know that American business will go into all lands on the same terms as the citizens and subjects of other countries to whom legal peace has been restored while it is denied to America and Russia.

Of course, there are other issues before the American people. There will be other issues. The tariff, for one, has disappeared because no one has finished products in quantities to sell us. It may revive of production in foreign lands increases and the depreciation of foreign money makes it impossible for Americans to send their products abroad.

Thus, no matter from what angle the situation is considered we come back to the Hughes-Herrick inquiry, "After the War—What?"

Reluctantly, as politicians may be loath to squarely in the face there is that treaty down in Washington. What are they going to do about it? It is useless to talk of the most high-flown reformer, one who might under all other circumstances be a new redeemer of the policies of the nation, one who might end domestic discord, insure that the workmen were happy and contented, that the profiteer abstain from his evil ways and know error no more, that the crops were good and the farmer profitable, when, after all, we are in a state of war and have one big problem that takes precedence over all others.

It is the treaty and the bringing of peace with Germany and Austria. We are now well into the second year, since the hostilities ceased yet there is no minister from Berlin or Austria in Washington and we have nothing but a makeshift representation in the late capitals of our enemies. The people of the United States and of the whole country asks—why? Let that be answered first and let there be no evasion. This clear-visioned watchman thinks that when responsibility is located the people of the nation will deal not too gently with those who are at fault.

It will not answer with the American people that there are shakings, quaking fears among the cohorts of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge over the present situation. The people cannot be concerned with things like that. They want the war put aside, finished, cleaned up and concluded. There will be a disposition to bring to task those who are continuing the state of war. Nor can the matter be settled in another way than to ratify the treaty or if it be rejected, let those who reject pick up bat and lie themselves to Berlin to beg a new treaty.

Probably the reason that the followers of Senator Lodge who know the sentiment as well as any one else do not act seriously on the matter of settlement and ratification is that they fear the Borah and Johnson gang in the West. They feel that Borah and Johnson will split the party by demanding a new ratification party to stand fairly and squarely against the League of Nations. But the American people can hardly be expected to suffer a continual line for their fears and quakes. The central fact in this situation is not one to be laid aside lightly.

Seen from the standpoint of great national issues, truly national issues, supremely paramount national issues, the projected candidacy of Hon. Herbert Hoover is not compelling, despite certain endorsements and some throwing up of dust unless he has something to offer on ending the war—ending, that is, the legal state of war after the Wilson administration thru that art of picking out the right leaders in the military and civic, naval and industrial fields of action and by the skill of its political and moral offensives against the enemy had brought hostilities to an end thru victory. If Mr. Hoover has a better solution for the tangle into which senatorial jealousy has plunged the country, let him tell us what it is. We wait in patience undisturbed by the style of propaganda which tries to practice in the art of make-believe that no one is interested in seeing the country on a footing with its late associates in the war.

Warm welcome will be extended by all to the proposal that there be a genuine contest for the preference of Ohio as to the Republican nomination for President. Senator Warren G. Harding, of course, shrewdly waited until state pride had been aroused—and these Ohioans are surely a proud lot—before he challenged the other gang. It was shrewd work in Warren. That's sure. Equally clever was his scheme for getting

Hon. Harry M. Daugherty on the delegation and it now seems that unless some real insurgent appears the former state chairman can be a member of the Big Four, notwithstanding that his election would have been set in motion against him. A lot were waiting for marching orders but it is not likely they will be issued. Due to his regard for Senator Harding, Commodore Robert F. Wolfe, is not likely to kick up a muss. He could, though, even yet if he wanted to do so. On the other hand, the attempt to dictate in all congressional districts may not work so well. But these delegation details should not prevent Hiram Johnson and General Leonard Wood coming into Ohio to gun for votes. They will get a lot, more especially if Johnson can rally the anti-league forces and some element of the old progressives. From the East there comes a tip that Wood and Harding have some sort of understanding. Doubtless, Wood remains the second choice of the Ohio Republicans who will stick to Harding long enough to show decent respect to him.

Announcement by friends of Senator Alfeo Pomerene a few days ago that he would be in the race in the Ohio Democratic primaries seems to make a contest inevitable. The friends of Governor M. Cox are determined that he shall enter and the struggle for control will go to a conclusion. Since both men are held in high regard by their party there is no occasion for bitterness unless some of the "left wing" followers of Senator Pomerene persist in their mistake course. The policy of making a very partisan Cleveland Republican newspaper the oracle for expressions that are not calculated to party harmony promotion, it is opined here. Thru this medium came a proposal for division of the delegation but it seems to have been framed in such a manner as to be impossible of acceptance unless greatly modified.

Notwithstanding their sad experiences with the combination of state and national tickets in 1916 when they tried the game and lost everything, the Republican majority in the General Assembly is determined to try the sad experiment again. They feel it is the only way to keep Vice Donahay out of the Governor's office. Of course, their bill will never become law, but it does show where the tears lie. After breaking the Smith one per cent tax law, is it surprising? The do-nothing body has this and several prohibition bills, one already repudiated, to its credit. The author of the new combination bill is Representative A. Lee Beatty who is to be alternate at large to the Republican national convention, which is a cheap price for the party to regain his support, once threatened by the defeat of his equal privileges bill, which was promised the colored brethren. This year the negroes are to be satisfied with another declaration in the platform. It seems they are as tractable as ever.

Some one remarked recently that there had not been an instance in recent months in which a Republican newspaper had suspended publication, giving way to a Democratic one. The case of Marietta is different. The Republican Journal goes into the hands of the Democrats. Incidentally, the change in that field makes Frank McKimley the dominant factor in Marietta newspapers. Time was when the Register-Leader was king bee but that time is no more. The suspension of the Journal is just another instance of contraction of the number of newspapers of general circulation in state and country. So long as paper continues high the contraction probably will continue.

Formal announcement of Judge George W. Mannix of Greenville, that he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Fourth District leads to the certainty of a heated battle in that bellwether. Efforts are to be made to keep the contest free from entanglements with that for delegates to the national convention but even the most sanguine doubt whether it can be done. Mannix himself has no intention of mixing the two, and probably Hon. F. Welby has not, but the temptation to form factions is strong in the Fourth District and no one can tell. The Cincinnati-Toledo canal will also be an issue. Mannix seeming to take the attitude that the plan is not as big proposition as Welby does. That times have changed from the old railroad baiting days is seen in the fact that Representative L. A. Pearson, of Miami, hoping to be the Republican nominee, is back of a bill to repeal two-cent railroad fare when the lines go back to private ownership.

It is, as we understand it, one of the principles of Newton that "a body in motion will remain in motion unless acted upon by some other force." The principle seems to have application to Joint Committee on Re-organization of the General Assembly. At the beginning of their labors some one, no matter who, evidently gave them orders to go ripping into the workmen's compensation situation and they have been ripping ever since. Until some one calls them off by warning of the dangers of literal and figurative wallpops on the jaw for this activity they will continue. The report of the liability insurance expert, S. P. Wolfe, from New York, is another point in the long story. The report was in the hands of the Congress legislative service before minority members of the committee even had a chance to see it, but what of that. It will turn up in every state in which there is an attempt to establish a real compensation system. Count on that. The Auditor of State will refuse to pay the bill. But, again

What of that? Often it seems that a few embattled workmen with hickory staves could accomplish more than any other force.

Men skilled in public health matters think that in Ohio under the influence of successive progressive steps that have been taken practically every important health matter except one is the way of solution. The one remaining problem is that of feeble-mindedness. Now this paragraph has no relation to politics and must not be construed, as the General Assembly might say, to include politics. It is a serious discussion of a very practical matter. For generations Ohio has not done its duty in preventing of this malady. The policy of segregation has been urged as has that of sterilization but there are today thousands of feeble-minded persons, young men and young women of potential productivity at large. The longer the state delays constructive measures the more serious will the problem become.

On the other hand, the crusade against venereal diseases is bearing fruit. A recent report shows that nearly 3,000 persons have been treated in recent months in public dispensaries and that nearly 1,000 potential distributors of social ills have been quarantined. The acute nature of the situation as to feeble-minded, however, has made the state authorities doubly anxious to hasten the acquisition of the Ancor plant. If this can be done, the problem for southern Ohio will be well under way of solution. Then, the state will turn to the north.

There seems to be but little doubt that the canvas instituted by the labor organizations against the new legislation proposed by Attorney General Mitchell Palmer is making an impression in Ohio. The first evidence of it is seen in the attitude of the Scripps-McKeloe League of newspapers. They certainly went as far as they could in opposing this legislation. Heretofore Editor C. Landon Knight, of Akron, had been pretty near alone in that attitude. As a member of the committee of 48 he was adding in writing a radical platform and this fact seems to have prejudiced a no inconsiderable number as to what he had to say. Among lawyers of Ohio there has been circulated the statement of the New York Bar Association in which adverse reports are made upon the proposals. Promising its statement upon the claim that there is no longer a war reason for the legislation, the Gotham barbers say, "It should be our duty today as lawyers, to reconsider and review all encroachments made, in whatever form, either legislative, executive or judicial, upon the common liberties of free America — encroachments inconsistent with our traditions and with principles of government our forefathers established and passed down to use as a sacred trust."

Indulging in Strong Drink.Cadomene Tablets Will Help
You Over the Rough Period.

Cadomene Tablets are helpful to weak nerves. Weak, faulty nerves often come from strong drink. Sometimes the system is impoverished by excesses of one kind or another, such as poor digestion and faulty nutrition. Overwork, anxiety, and even grief causes abnormal nervous conditions. The strength of body declines. The strength of will power wanes. Nervousness and sleeplessness causes further weakness and loss of vitality. Years of faithful practice taught a great physician that the formula now used to make Cadomene Tablets would surely build up the health of his patients. Now, anyone can take this great medicine if needed. Mr. G. A. Hoover, R. R. No. 1, Reading, Pa., writes: "I am taking Cadomene Tablets with very gratifying results. Nervousness, overwork, and sleeplessness are my complaints."

Mr. Joe N. Herndon, 1645 Twenty-fifth St., Sacramento, Cal., writes: "I am using Cadomene Tablets and find a great improvement has been brought about in two days."

IN SUSIE SMARTS DAILY MAIL

Dear Miss Smart: I am a boy of 19 years. I do not go out very often in the evening, but when I do go out, my parents get mad about it. It makes me feel very bad to see other boys together, or boys and girls having good times. They always say I spend too much money, and I only average about 40 or 50 cents a week. I do not like to cause trouble, but I think I am old enough to have some independence. Please give me some advice about the matter. Thanking you, I am

TROUBLED.

Answer: I think your parents are unreasonably strict with you, and it certainly is sad that a boy of your age cannot go places without causing trouble. Can't you explain to them that you are old enough to take care of yourself and that you like pleasure once in a while? If you can't convince them you will have to put up with it until you are of age.

My dear Miss Smart: I am a young girl not seventeen, and am tall for my age. I am going to college. What I want to ask you is this: Last summer I made an acquaintance with a young man eighteen. Since then we have gone to several dances. I realize we are very young, but my parents thought a dance here and there would be all right. They told me I could remain at the dance until eleven o'clock. The last one, I was about a half hour late, and it was late when they started. Now I am not allowed to attend dances any more until I finish school. I just love dancing and it hurts me to quit. Do you think eleven o'clock is too late to remain at a dance? One can hardly get home earlier as they do not begin until 9 o'clock. I know you don't like to write against parents' will, but kindly advise me.

BLUEYES.

Answer: To begin with, I think you are rather foolish in going against your parents' wishes. They were kind enough to permit you to go to dances, (which privilege most girls of your age are denied,) and you should have exercised some effort to return home when they asked you to. Eleven o'clock is not too late to remain at a dance if your parents do not object, but girls your age should not be out that late. You will have plenty of time to go to dances and enjoy yourself when you are eighteen, and until then your parents are doing the right thing in not permitting you to go wherever or whenever you like. Take more interest in your studies.

The Public Is Disgusted, Mr. Burkhardt.

MAYOR FRANK A. BURKHARDT may not realize that the public is becoming thoroughly disgusted at his new role of ring-master making of himself, not a Mayor of a progressive city, but the puppet of petty politics, dawdling over appointive jobs which any school boy could fill, while the City of Lima which he is pledged to govern for all the people, runs along on a rain-check, needing big things, as Nero-like our Mayor fiddles and lets it burn.

THE DAILY PRESS has been filled with debate over a civil service commission berth which doesn't amount to a hill of beans and would never be missed if dropped entirely. At the same time not a word has come from the Mayor nor an effort made to hurry along a new lighting and power contract which means everything to the city.

MAYOR BURKHARDT is a member of a civic club which contributed $500 towards an investigation of this new contract with the Ohio Electric, four months ago. Lawyers are still supposedly reading that franchise, while council the real legislative branch of government, sits inane awaiting their decision. Judge Killitts of Toledo, gave the Citizens committee nine days to prepare a franchise on street cars, and it was ready on the eighth day. We have given four months and nothing is ready. One would think a herculean task is being performed which when finished would make Blackstone seem a petty penitentiary.

THE PUBLIC IS DISGUSTED with the delays and inefficiency of our city government and with others seemingly infected with the inflated Ego which City Halls breed. Lima is a growing city, tugging at the municipal rope which holds it back, when it is ready to plunge forward. Four years and a half building a water works reservoir, still nothing but a brough in the ground; four months changing the phreology of an ordinance, the terms of which could be reduced to a single page and made good law; one month of his two years, and Mayor Burkhardt is complaining about the street car service, talking a twelve-minute schedule, writing notes a la Mexicana. Mere boash, and such old-stuff even a comedian would not attempt to pull.

MAYOR BURKHARDT well knows as a former Ohio Electric official why Lima hasn't new cars and a better street car schedule. He well knows that it is pure bunk to write notes to Manager Dugan about the complaints the people are making. He well knows that until we get a new contract our city will remain semi-lighted and our street car service dilapidated. Why not hurry up the franchise, call the Citizens Committee on the carpet and tell it to shoot or Council, which in the last analysis is the legislative body anyway, will pass its own contract?

LIMA REALIZES that she can't grow another factory nor another resident addition without a power plant that can furnish electricity. Almost in the heart of the city, branching off Elm street new streets were paved and homes sprung up like magic, yet this section, not six blocks from the public square, was forced to burn coal-oil lamps because it couldn't secure electric service.

LIMA IS ALL SET for a city of 100,000 and she hasn't water enough to wet her whistle; or electric power enough to drive an additional curling iron. Still our Mayor fiddles and fusses, writes notes and plays clown if some entertainment wishes him to garb in his timeworn costume. It is time City Council woke up and took matters into its own hand.

THE PEOPLE ARE SICK of cheap promises and cheap ballyhoos. It wants utilities which will furnish service and is ready to pay a decent price for them; the same price which other cities of our population pay, and no more. The public is disgusted, Mr. Burkhardt; it wants a Mayor, not an orator, or a novelist.

Business Conditions.

DESPITE SEEMING OPTIMISM prevailing through the country, money markets the past week have unsettled business; the stock market has moved within very narrow margins, while volume of sales was conspicuous by its total absence. Advancing of the discount rate by the Federal Reserve banks to six per cent for commercial paper, very accurately forecasts seven and eight per cent for money even in this section. It means a tightened condition, a slowing down of expansion and a worry for the man of affairs who must have big accommodations at various periods of his year.

CONTRARY TO THIS national condition, the week locally has been persistently bullish in all quarters. There are only forty vacant houses in Lima today, according to the Real Estate board. Money is plentiful at local Banks and Building & Loans; merchandise is moving rapidly; clearance sales have been highly satisfactory; three plants are enlarging their capacity; others are planning enlargements. Lima looks better than she has in two decades; her people are prosperous; there is no gloom apparent. Business conditions in Lima are such now that any general upward trend must bring hundreds of new homes as new labor comes into the city. Return of the rail roads to private ownership in another five weeks will be the get-away word for our equipment factories and once these are again at capacity, Lima will add 10,000 inhabitants within a few brief weeks. The Daily News is soundly sold on Lima; every head of a family should buy him a house before spring and also become sold on this town. Be a bull, a plunging, strong-hearted bull, for this town is on its way to 100,000 people.

MISS LIMA: "This is leap year all right, but the women may find it difficult to leap very far with the skirts as tight as they are."

Let's Go.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE is ready now to start on another year. It has chosen a new directorate which will meet in a few days to outline work for the next 12 months. It will not be hard for the new organization to find plenty to do.

MUCH HAS BEEN accomplished during the last year in coordinating the various branches of the chamber and getting a closer co-operation from all. This is commendable, but with that work off hand attention should be given to the crying needs of Lima. A chamber of commerce to be a success must be a directing force. It must have plenty of backing and push and be imbued with a spirit of doing things.

THERE IS PLENTY of cash available in this city for chamber of commerce work when it has been demonstrated that something is going to be accomplished. We are no different from any other city. Our big institutions are liberal in their support of anything that works for a better Lima. Now is the time to make a start to get for the city the things it has been needing.

GOVERNOR SMITH Practicality His Issue

BY H. P. BURTON

ALBANY, N. Y. — If Alfred E. Smith, chief executive of the state of New York and familiarly known as "Governor Al," should, by trick of fate, or politics, arrive at the White House in 1921, all the old Lincoln-Garfield brand of romance may immediately be revived.

"Al" Smith is as plebeian as Abe Lincoln. He was born as poor as the rail-splitter's son, and his father's Bowery tenement had no more graces than the little Lincoln cabin. Alfred Smith's birthplace was in the center of the famous Fourth Ward, that holds not only the Bowery but Cherry Hill and Mulberry Bend, Baxter-st and Chinatown.

When he was 13 he went to work in an oil store, quitting four years later to clerk in the Fulton Fish Market. It was there, the evening the real Al appeared—the Al that became famous in the whole district as the best monologist in Henry Campbell's Club for Boys.

Campbell soon decided Al was too good for the fish market and asked the district leader to get him a job, and he was appointed server of jury notices at $1,000 a year. Then Al married a Cherry St. girl, sister of a policeman. They took a four-room tenement in Back Ship and the first baby was born there in 1901, when Al was 25.

At 15 Al Smith was governor of the state of New York. By "finance" the district leader, who had given Smith his first real job, and the assemblyman from Smith's district had a fall out, and at the eleventh hour they needed a man. Campbell suggested Al. Thus he went to the Assembly in 1904, as a member of the "big" set, the first member that had ever entered Albany.

But in two or three years, Al Smith knew more about the state

A "Cord Tire" Storage Battery—Guaranteed Two Years

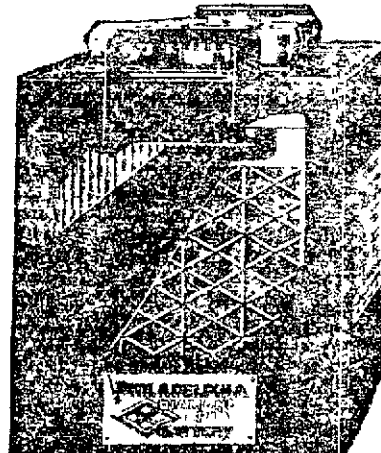

MOST automobile starting batteries are not guaranteed at all. The Philadelphia Diamond Grid Battery with the Philco Slotted Retainer is Guaranteed for Two Years.

Like the cord tire, it not only lasts longer but all during its life can be depended upon for more reliable service.

Two exclusive, patented features are: the Diamond Grid and the Philco Slotted Retainer.

1. The Diamond Grid, "built like a bridge," gives the strength to resist strain of sudden discharge and to withstand the rough jolting of hard service.
2. The Philco Retainer is a sheet of hard rubber closely perforated with long, narrow slots, placed against each positive plate, to prevent active material from falling off the plates; this adds at least 25 per cent to the life of the battery.

To you, as a motorist, these features mean not only longer life secured by a Two-Year Guarantee from the manufacturer, but more snappy starting, more reliable lighting and fewer repair bills.

We repair and recharge all makes of batteries.

THE "LIVER."
Bow down your head, old man,
You who had dreams of fame;
You feel the ache as the morning breaks—
Dearly you've paid for each mistake—
Tours was a losing game.

Brood through the night, old man,
Where spectral forms prevail;
Where gray ghosts creep in each fitful sleep,
Count as you may the jumping sheep—
You're quenched for good—in jail.

Musing you are, old scout,
On days beyond recall;
The man you'd be, the goal you'd win—
Dreaming these things that might have been,
Where cross-hatched shadows fall.

These wintry winds are terrible! A wind that blew a scarf off the dressing table of Mrs. Josephine Winter, Newark, N. J., cost her a husband.

A letter was under the scarf in her handwriting beginning, "My Dear Dear Joe." Her husband's name is Augustus, and he picked up the letter.

But you can't remove and repair a broken heart. A Pennsylvania girl sues for $100,000 because "her heart was broken" when the defendant married another woman.

WHAT THE STARS PREDICT

This is an unlucky day. Prospect of war is indicated and troops may even be called out, but the crisis will be momentary. Storms with extraordinarily high winds will sweep the country next month.

Again the stars warn of crimes against children. Inventive genius will produce many mechanical devices calculated to revolutionize industry.

Persons whose birthday this is will have a year of anxiety, but with financial recompense. Children born today will be too rash and impulsive for their own good.

O'NIEL STARS IN SPANISH PLAY

"The Passion Flower" Affords Range for Emotional Nance

THE REVIEW OF THE RIALTO

Broadway Has French Play On Boards

By DAVID HINES

NEW YORK. — A play of such great power, acted with such dramatic effect, and staged with such skill as to arouse a regular New York audience to the highest pitch of excitement was "The Passion Flower" from the Spanish of Jacinto Benavente, acted by Nance O'Neil and a competent cast last week. Nance O'Neil long has been one of the foremost figures on the American stage. Recognized as one of the greatest emotional actresses of the international stage, those who are most familiar with her power have long expected the great moment when it would come into her own, and "The Passion Flower" is the play which has launched her tremendous power and placed her high among the great emotional actresses of the past and present. The play is a power of dramatic tragedy, but in the present district of Spain, with the primitive people of the reaction time, and the great opportunity afforded an actress of the power of Nance O'Neil, the sudden revelation that her husband, the stepfather of her child, looks upon her person with lustful design. It is at this moment that the great power of Miss O'Neil sweeps the audience virtually along with her in a torrent of passionate outburst. The play is not of the usual dramatic type, it is a tremendous, primitive, and emotional, and in the hands of Miss O'Neil and her cast, which includes Charles Waldron, Robert Fisher, Harold Hartell, Edna Walton, Mrs. Charles G. Clark and others, it is made a gripping and sensational production. It easily ranks as one of the notable plays of the season and one of the greatest performances of recent years.

From Spanish we turn to the French, and here find two antitheses to the power of the Spanish dramatist in "The Folly," a delightful little bit of wit, and "English as It Is Spoken," satire on the French-English combination of language. Although each play is produced in the language of France, so skilful are the players that this is no serious handicap to American playgoers. This company is a rare treat to New Yorkers and those who visit the Metropolis, and their offerings, of the lighter texture, are as diverting as they are clever.

"The Great Illusion," by Sacha Guitry, the great French actor, is being played this week for the first time in English with Georges Plateau, another great French actor in the featured role. It is to be brought to Broadway very shortly, and from the reports which precede it, a success is predicted for the play which is most skilfully and deftly acted by Mr. Plateau who, although a great actor in Paris, acts cleverly and effectively in English.

Grace George is turned to Broadway this week in a clever comedy, "The Ruined Lady," by Frances Nordstrom. Miss George is accepted as one of the leading comedienne of the American stage, so clever that playgoers find it difficult to supply her with a suitable play. In the present offering, however, she has one of the most original and delightful comedy elevations of her career. She is happily well supported too.

"The Game," by Kipling Gordon and Willard Robertson, is another play scheduled for this week. It has been seen by many Broadway playgoers when produced in the hinterland, and its power is generally recognized. Mr. Gordon, who is a creation of the play, is one of the best comedians who have been supplied with matter concerning the activities of William A. Brady, and this is so far as his knowledge, his first effort to compete with Moderns in the more recent and successful stage writers.

Oliver Morosini has scheduled this week the Harvard play, "Mama Attire," by Rachel Barton. "Mama Attire" is a matter of more than passing interest. The play has been with Ethel Shannon, Robert Johnson, Katharine Kathed, Amelia Barnham and others, which is an impressive group of noted players. It has aroused considerable interest among playgoers as well as the literati, among the latter being Jay Barnes who manifests an unusual interest in the event and written copiously of its importance.

After several weeks of revivals of the best light opera ever written, but which were revived only last year, the excellent company of American singers at the Park Theatre are giving their artistic attention to "Ruddigore" this week. It has been many years since this light opera has been sung, and the interest is not alone among the music lovers of the present, but of a past generation. This season of light opera revivals one that could not be spared very well by music lovers.

SNAPPY THEATRICAL ATTRACTIONS THIS WEEK

Vaudeville Offering Also Promises To Furnish Much Entertainment

BY ESTHER WAGONER

NOT IN many years has an attraction given as much general satisfaction in a local theatre as did Ed Wynne in his new creation of carnival at The Faurot, Wednesday night. Wynne has created a mixture of Shubert's Pantomime Show and Ziegfeld's famous Follies, which pleased and for a road attraction the staging was much more generous as well as the costuming than is usually offered.

Whether or not the boycott story is to be taken seriously or whether Mr. Wynne comes along at the psychological matters little to the theatre goer; or there is another phase known to business that may have caused the standing room only condition for the Wynne Carnival played at the highest prices of the year and played to capacity. There is a saying that if you want to sell anything advance the price and the public will buy. Well, they bought out the house at $2.00 and it was a good buy.

Theatre goers in Lima have no cause for complaint on the legitimate attractions offered this year. Now comes the next week with two of the highest type successes. "The Boomerang" played New York to the full capacity of the Belasco Theatre for over a year and played to the capacity of Powers Theatre all last season in Chicago. It is one of the best pieces of dramatic art the great Belasco has produced in recent years, clever, well cast and beautifully staged. It comes Monday night, and as both a comedy and as a drama, no one can be disappointed.

Along the musical comedy line, "Going Up," the Cohan & Harris attraction at The Faurot for Saturday night, is the latest Bohemian production. It is a jungle from start to finish, with catch music and clever lines. It enjoyed an extraordinary long run in both New York and Chicago and to lovers of comic opera or musical comedy as you wish to call it, it is the best buy of the season. Standing room only should greet "Going Up" Saturday next.

"THE BOOMERANG" Not in a decade has there been produced upon the American stage a comedy so light of touch and so full of spirit as David Belasco's presentation of the Winchell Smith-Victor Mapes comedy, "The Boomerang," which will be the attraction at the Faurot Monday night, as anyone who saw this brilliant play at the same theatre last season will testify. With its rich touches of human nature and a deliciously delicate humor seldom found in plays, this great Belasco success ran for years and a half of continuous performances at the Belasco Theatre, New York.

"The Boomerang" is in three acts and deals with the attempts of a young physician to cure a patient's jealousy by diverting his attention to another object, in this case a very pretty nurse in the physician's employ. As the play progresses he finds that his remedy is robbing himself, and finally he falls a victim to the charms of this same nurse. The audience is said to be marked by the production with a keen interest and good breeding as any American audience have yet shown, while better still, Messrs. Smith and Mapes are credited with showing a feeling for character and psychology that breathes life into the very action.

According to report each and every act in "The Boomerang" is acted with that finesse and dramatic finish always to be found in a Belasco production. The cast includes such able players as Robert Cunnison, Harry Hayden, Eugene G. Harper, Carlton Rivers, James Ward, George Shelvlin, Tall, a Concord, David Mord, Mary Elizabeth Forbes, Francis Keenan, Helen Strickland and others.

"GOING UP" In the field of music and fun Cohan and Harris have another genuine success in "Going Up" which is fresh from its record-breaking run of two seasons at the Liberty Theatre, New York, and will be seen at the Faurot next Saturday afternoon and night. To use a well worn phrase, "plays come and plays may go" but it is doubtful if the record for melody and laughter registered by this musical comedy classic will be equalled for a long time to come.

Fashioned from "The Aviator" by James Montgomery, reinforced with lyric gems by Otto Harbach, seen

The Boomerang's return scene from David Belasco's worth while hits, Theresa Josephs, Hilda Johnson, "The Boomerang" at the Liberty Theatre, New York, Monday night. Harry Hayden and Eugene G. Harper, Carlton Rivers, James Ward, George Shelvlin, Tall, a Concord, David Mord, Mary Elizabeth Forbes, Francis Keenan, Helen Strickland and others.

Edurne, one of the best comedienne in musical comedy, a large cast, chorus, and the famous Broadway "Johnnies." It is a joyous production in three acts with clever lines from the pen of Georges Barr and Louis Verneuil, and catchy music by Irving Berlin and Ivan Caryll. "Everybody Dance" seems to be the watchword, and the show is a happy combination of pretty faces, catchy songs, clever dancing, full of dash, buoyancy and youthful spirits, with just enough of the dramatic to make good comedy, and a love story that is romance itself.

VAUDEVILLE

Patrons of the local vaudeville house have a big treat in store for them today. In addition to the big vaudeville attraction, a fine first-run photoplay, "The Combat," starring beautiful Anita Stewart, will be shown. The price will remain the same for this combined attraction, practically two shows in one. "The Combat" is a five-reel picture of the highest class and is certain to please. The five big acts of vaudeville for today make up one of the best bills ever seen at the Orpheum, the press agent says. The headliners are Dress and Golden in "A southern serenade" called "On the Old Mississippi." It is a blackface, darktown offering full of comedy and pep and all please. Lee and Lawrence offer an added attraction in a skit of tinkling tunes, graceful dances and repartee. The act is staged under the name of "Mildred Raffles."

An offering of mirthful and melodious songs and sayings is presented by Chilton and May Glendower and Marion presents "Diplomats," a skit of pure joy. Gloria Wayne is one of the daintiest and most charming comedienne in vaudeville. The attractions at the two shows at the Orpheum the coming week are declared to be of the highest order. The press agents claim them among the finest to be had and Limaites who visit this popular playhouse during the week are certain of seeing something worth while.

How To Get Relief When Head and Nose are Stuffed Up.

Count fifty! Your cold or catarrh disappears. Your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more sniffling, hawking, mucous discharge, dryness or headache; no struggling for breath at night. Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist and apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. MOVIES HAVE STORE OF PLEASING ATTRACTIONS

Manager of Screen Houses Promise Large Run of Pictures That Will Delight, They Tell Us

COMMENT AND FORECAST.

By ESTHER WAGNER.

Motion picture lovers are unusually favored this week in having a galaxy of new productions in store for them. First run pictures that are bound to please are on the bills for exhibition in all the movie houses. The movie audience is to be well pleased this week, the managers tell us. The list of offerings at the cinema palaces is abundant with offerings to please the most critical. The entire gamut of plots, intrigues, and passions is run in the screen productions of this week.

Prominent among the attractions is the picture "The Beauty Market" starring beautiful Katherine MacDonald, at the Regent Theatre today, Monday and Tuesday. It is a drama that will open your eyes, and make you think and includes an extraordinary supporting cast.

"The Vengeance of Durand," at the Lyric Theatre today and tomorrow, offers Alice Joyce in the stellar role, and is an intensely dramatic and exceptional picture, the story of a jealous husband. Alice Joyce is at her best in the production and wears many wonderful gowns.

Happy-go lucky Bryant Washburn is the Faurot's attraction today and in "Why Smith Left Home," he adds to his list of triumphs. "Why Smith Left Home" is a comedy-drama, the story centering around a young couple who start on their honeymoon, incidents all combining to prevent them from reaching their destination.

The Majestic has booked as a special attraction for today and tomorrow the great human interest play "The Westerners" portraying the cunning and intrigue of an Indian half-breed. Roy Stewart has the leading male role, and he is supported by an able cast including Mildren Manning, who plays a dual role that of Prue Welsh and later the part of Molly her daughter.

As a whole, local theatres are offering their patrons a widely varied program, not only for today but for the ensuing week, when several photo plays of note will be presented.

CONSTANCE BINNEY-REARLART STAR

Altho "Eistwhile Susan" which will be presented at the Faurot next Thursday and Friday is Constance Binney's first stellar production in motion pictures, her beauty and talent are well known to the screen world. Her performance in "Sporting Life" as the daughter of the horse-trainer who matures the sporting young nobleman brought her to the front rank of picture actresses and made her a favorite of photo play audiences. As leading woman for John Barrymore in "The Test of Honor," Miss Binney's characterization was easily one of the outstanding elements in the success of the production.

The fame of this young woman is based not alone on her screen performances, her portrayal of the heroine of "The Test of Honor" made her the sensational stage star of the last New York theatrical season, a success which she is now duplicating in Chicago. As a Rearlart star, Constance Binney will be seen exclusively in adaptations of popular plays or books.

This program is rich in added features. You will see the sparkling Topics of the Day, the interesting and humorous Paramount Magazine and last but not least "Pat" Arbuckle's latest comedy skit "The Hayseed."

"WHY SMITH LEFT HOME," FAUROT — Bachelor will probably smile complacently and say, "I told you so" when they see Bryant Washburn's new Paramount Art-craft picture "Why Smith Left Home," which is coming to the Faurot for today only. For certainly no man ever had more cause to brand

LYRIC

There is such a thing as too much love. The idea is driven home with compelling force by Vitaphone's new superfilm, "The Vengeance of Durand." The picture, with Alice Joyce in the stellar role, will be the feature attraction at the Lyric theatre today and tomorrow.

Henri Durand, a stately French gentleman of the old school, represents in this film the character of the man who possesses too much love.

His wife, Marion, is considerably his junior, a bewitching beautiful woman.

Durand's excessive love for his dazzling wife leads him to become jealous. He cannot bear to have her look at any other man. It happens that they move in a circle of polished clever society in which Marion constantly meets dashing or otherwise attractive men.

Alice Joyce in "The Vengeance of Durand" at the Lyric today and tomorrow.

Three or four of these counters are frequent companions of the young woman in thoroughly fine happenings, no packed full of dramatic fashion. However there is in other, named Lafarge who is unscrupulous, a foe to the virtue of the innocent object of his suspicious wives and the honor of husbands.

Rex Beach

The Vengeance of Durand is massive and the rich settings of old France, with the satins and broad cloth of the world's social centers—Paris—it is big indeed.

You have seen Alice Joyce in three wonderful pictures "A S. Vengeance", "Within The Law" and recently "The Third Degree" and while we know that to say "The Vengeance of Durand" is Miss Joyce's best, still after you view this production we feel sure you will say that this performance surpasses all her other efforts.

THE BRANDING IRON

A Story of the East and West

Copyrighted by
KATHERINE N. BURT

SYNOPSIS

In the far west lives Pierre Landis and his wife, Joan, who, before marriage, was Joan Carver, daughter of an escaped convict, now living apart from civilization. He had sworn that his daughter should know no men, but she rebelled and ran away, securing employment in a frontier town. Here she met Pierre Landis and later married him. Joan's father, John Carver, comes to their cabin and informs Pierre of the tale of his own unfaithful wife. Pierre broods over the matter, but only for a while, and later shows his wife the "Two-Bar Brand" iron, which he intends to make famous the country over. During his absence, the circuit minister, whom Joan calls the "sin-buster," asks for accommodations over night, which Joan gladly grants. He awakens Joan's interest in books, of which she has none, and on his next visit, brings several along. Joan gives her entire attention to reading, while her husband angrily remonstrates. Pierre, leaving for a week's trip on business, leaves Joan with her books.

PIERRE TAKES STEPS TO PRESERVE HIS PROPERTY

A LOG fell forward and Joan lifted her head. She had not come to an end of her memories, but something other than the falling log had startled her; a light crunching step upon the snow. She looked toward the window. For an instant the room was almost dark and the white night peered in at her, its gigantic snow-peaks pressing against the long, horizontal window panes; and in that instant she saw a face. The face started up again, the white light dropped longer, then it too disappeared. Joan came to her feet with pounding pulses. It had been Pierre's face, but at the same time, the face of a stranger. He had come back five days too soon and something terrible had happened. Surely his changing to see her with a book would not make him look like that. Besides, she was not wasting oil. She had stood up, but at first she was incapable of moving forward. For the first time in her life she knew the paralysis of unreasoning fear. Then the door opened and Pierre came in out of the crystal night. "What brought you back so soon?" asked Joan. "Too soon for you, eh?" He strode over to the hearth where she sat, took up the book she held in her hand as though it had been a hated beast, and flung it into the fire. "I seen you through the window," he said. "So you been happy readin' while I been away?" "I'll get you supper, I'll light the lamp," Joan stammered. Pierre's face was pale, his black hair lay in wet streaks on his temples. He must have traveled at furious speed through the bitter cold to be in such a state. There was a mysterious, controlled disorder in his look and there arose from him the odor of strong drink. But he was steady and sure in all his movements and his eyes were deadly cool and reasonable — only it was the reasonableness of insanity, reasonableness based on the wildest premises of unreason. "I don't want no supper, nor no light," he said. "Firelight's enough for you to read parson's books by, it's enough for me to do what I oughter done long afore to-night." She stood in the middle of the small, log-walled room, arrested in the act of lighting a match, and stared at him with troubled eyes. She was no longer afraid. After all, strange as he looked, more strangely as he talked, he was her Pierre, her man. The confidence of her heart had not been seriously shaken by his coldness and his moods during winter. There had been times of fierce, possessive tenderness. She was his own woman, his property; at this low counting did she rate herself. A sane man does no injury to his own possession. And Pierre, as sane as she was, was true, angry, he had been drinking — her ignorance, her inexperience led her to put little emphasis on the effects of the poison sold at the town saloon. When he was warm and fed and rested, he would be quite himself again. She went about preparing a meal in spite of his words. He did not seem to notice this. He had taken his eyes from her at last and was busy with the fire. She, too, busy and reassured by the familiar occupation, ceased to watch him. Her pulses were quiet now. She was even beginning to be glad of his return. Why had she been so frightened? Of course, after such a terrible journey alone in the bitter cold, he would look strange. Her father, when he came back smelling of liquor had always been more than usually morose and unlike his every-day self. He would sit over the stove and tell her the story of his crime. They were horrible home-comings, horrible evenings, but the next morning they would seem like dreams. To-morrow this strangeness of Pierre's would be mistlike and unreal. "I seen your sin-buster in town," said Pierre. He was squatting on his heels over the fire which he had built up to a great blaze and glow and he spoke in a queer sing-song tone through his teeth. "He asked after you real kind. He wanted to know how you was gettin' on with the education he's ben handin' out to you. I tell him that you was right satisfied with me an' my ways an' hed quit his books. I didn't know sharp edge of the shelf, she drove her nails into her hands, and at intervals she writhed from head to foot. Circles of pain spread from the deep burn on her shoulder, spread and shrank, to spread and shrink again. The bones of her shoulder and arm ached terribly; fire still seemed to be eating into her flesh. The air was full of the smell of scorched skin so that she tasted it herself. And hotter than her hurt her heart burned consuming its own tenderness and love and trust. When this pain left her, when she was free of her bonds, no force nor fear would hold her to Pierre. She would leave him as she had left her father. She would go away. There was no place for her to go to, but what did that matter so long as she might escape from this horrible place and this infernal tormentor? She did not look about to see the actuality of Pierre's silence. She thought that he had dropped the brand and was sitting near the table with his face hidden. How long the stillness of pain and fury and horror lasted there was no one to reckon. It was most startlingly broken by a voice. "What screamed for help?" it said, and at the same instant a draught of icy air smote Joan. The door had opened with suddenness and violence. With difficulty she mastered her pain and turned her head. Pierre had staggered to his feet. Opposite him, framed against the open door filled with the wan whiteness of the snow, stood a spare, tall figure. The man wore his fur collar turned up about his chin and ears, his fur cap pulled down about his brow, a sharp aquiline nose stood out above frozen mustaches, keen and brilliant eyes searched the room. He carried his gun across his arm in readiness, and snuffed the air like a suspicious hound. Then he advanced a step toward

Pierre. "What devil's work have you been at?" said he, his voice cutting the same second the other's gun went off. Pierre dropped. This time Joan's nerves gave way and the room with its smell of scorched flesh, of powder, and of

Wonderful Riding Qualities In Coast-to-Coast Trip

ON rough highways and desert trails, in sunshine and storm, the Overland 4 Four-Door Sedan blazed the trail for the U. S. Army Pioneer Motor Transport Train from Washington to San Francisco. This plucky car was ever in the lead.

It was still another convincing demonstration of the wonderful riding ease of three-point suspension Triplex Springs.

Cushioned by these Springs from the shocks of rutted, rocky, torn-up roads, the Overland 4 glided along with a smoothness never before enjoyed in a light weight car.

Dr. Johnson, official lecturer for the Lincoln Highway Association, rode the entire distance from coast to coast in the Overland 4 Sedan. He pays this splendid tribute to its exceptional performance:

"I found the Overland 4 Sedan so suited to my needs that I rode in it from choice all the way. It must be the new spring arrangement, for even when the roads were rough I came to the night stops without fatigue. It is a marvel of ease and comfort."

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur it Darkens so Naturally Nobody can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and for a good reason, it is so simple and so effective, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Viveth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what the ladies with Viveth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If your Back hurts or Bladder bothers you, drink lots of water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salt which removes the body urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active. Drink lots of water. You can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

FURS AND MYSTERY

An Educational Advertisement BY BLUEM'S.

Deceiving the public as to furs is a trait by no means peculiar to twentieth century merchants alone, for in olden times there existed in England an association of furriers and skin dressers known as the Skinner's Company of London.

This association was established under a royal charter granted by Edward III and evidently the substitution of one fur for that of far greater value and other tricks were practiced in those days as much as they are today by some merchants, for history tells us that the chief concern of this association was to prevent buyers from being imposed upon.

That this association was long lived and much needed is evidenced by the fact that a century later the members of the Skinner's Company received another charter giving them the right to inspect not warehouses and open market alone, but workrooms as well.

From this series of talks upon furs and fur dealers we do not want you to gain the impression that the majority of fur dealers are dishonest, unscrupulous or devoid of a thorough knowledge of the fur business. That is far from being the case—our purpose in publishing these talks is to tell the prospective purchaser of fur what he or she should know, the better to distinguish between the reliable and the unreliable furrier.

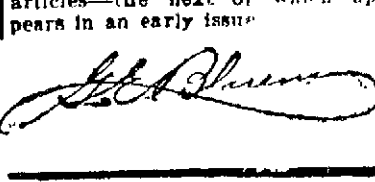

Nearly every concern dealing in furs occasionally advertises its stock or parts of it at reduced prices. But some concerns are dishonest enough to mark up the prices on a garment from twenty-five to one hundred per cent, then cut the marked price to the original selling price and advertise "Great Price Reductions."

There are conditions which make price reductions perfectly legitimate—one, for instance, is the weather. In order to show a more steady volume of business month by month and in order to keep its workers busy the year around, the inducement of reduced prices is offered during warmer weather.

OHIO'S OLDEST PRISONER PAYS SOCIETY'S DEBT

BY HOWARD BURBA

JIMMIE MCKINNEY, has paid his debt to the commonwealth of Ohio — he has balanced his account with Society and opposite his name on the ledger of mankind appear the words—Paid In Full.

Death has played a stellar role in the life of an Ohio man whom all save Death forgot, and death it was that enabled him to pay the state of Ohio a debt such as no other man has paid—fifty-four long, weary, desolate years behind prison bars. For when Death came to still the heart of poor, old Jimmie McKinney, just as the sun arose on Christmas morning and all the world was at peace, Jimmie sighed as though the weight of a great burden was being lifted from his heart, and started on that long, long journey across uncharted seas.

So many years have elapsed since the state of Ohio first exacted a reckoning of Jimmie McKinney that state officials can no longer locate a living relative. Only with difficulty can anyone be found who recalls the offense against the peace and dignity of the commonwealth for which he served exactly fifty-four years behind prison bars—the longest term ever served by any man in this state, if not in the entire middle west. His case had long ceased to elicit sympathy—fifty years had passed since there was any movement looking toward his release. He had accepted imprisonment as his feeble part in the general scheme of things earthly—and no one heard him grumble or complain. It was possibly the latter, more than anything else, that caused Jimmie McKinney to be forgotten by the world; to become as totally lost to humanity as if the earth had suddenly opened and swallowed him.

And yet, in this dusty precinct, long covered by dust and seared far back in a forgotten corner of the county clerk's office at Lima, is the one thing neither time nor death can remove in connection with the life of Jimmie McKinney. There, in faded lettering, is the sentence imposed by the court of Allen county fifty-four years ago. There is recorded the debt Jimmie McKinney spent more than half a century in settling. With it all Lima, no one could be found on Christmas morning to claim the body of the aged prisoner—no one of his flesh and blood appeared to mourn, and less than a half-dozen citizens had any recollection of the crime which cost Jimmie McKinney 54 of the entire 77 years he spent upon this earth. Officials of the State Hospital for Criminal Insane, where the man was incarcerated when the end came, attempted to find someone who could recall the case, who could relate details in connection with it. Slowly the story came out. One aged resident told of this or that incident in connection with it; another added a detail long forgotten; until finally, as though piecing together the fragments of a fiction story or a tale of love, and hate, and jealousy and distrust the life-story of Jimmie McKinney, Ohio's oldest prisoner, stood out, complete in every detail.

At the close of the Civil War Jimmie McKinney was a hard-working lad, respected in the community, and devoted to a young wife whose descendants are still among the most prominent residents of Northwestern Ohio. Young McKinney was rated as a capable workman and a good provider, a man who attended strictly to his own affairs and avoided every semblance of trouble.

Within a year after he had started housekeeping in the southeastern part of Lima those whose duties threw them into his presence noted a change in his general disposition. His greeting was no longer the happy, cheerful one which quickly made him new friends and had closely to him those whose acquaintance he had only enjoyed. He became sullen, morose and quarrelsome.

Neighbors on the street upon which stood the little McKinney cottage were quick to attribute McKinney's changed personality to domestic trouble. They recalled that but a few months before a young doctor had come to make his home in Lima, and that he had, presumably in a professional way, been calling at the McKinney home. The tongue of gossip wagged freely in those days, just as it has since the world was young, and some of that gossip reached the ears of Jimmie McKinney. The name of his wife had been linked with that of Dr. Charles Daly, and in a way no self-respecting, home-loving man could approve.

This condition prevailed until, as an aged resident of Lima recalls, McKinney's mind appeared to have become impaired. And yet it was not believed to be so serious as to make him a menace to those with whom he came in contact. He became a heavy user of intoxicants.

And then, on January 2, 1865, while Daly was in a saloon alongside the once famous old Cambridge House, near the Pennsylvania railroad station in Lima, McKinney entered and proceeded to denounce him. In the quarrel which quickly arose Daly was shot to death.

The late Samuel Collins, for many years prominent in affairs of Northwestern Ohio, was sheriff of Allen county at the time, and he was quickly upon the scene. Seeking to escape the officer McKinney sprang over the body of his victim and ascended to the second floor of the building in which the saloon was located. Following him, gun in hand, Sheriff Collins faced a strong barrage of pistol bullets as McKinney emptied the remaining loads in his gun down the stairway. The sheriff escaped unharmed, save for a slight wound upon one ear. He returned long covered by dust and seared far back in a forgotten corner of the county clerk's office at Lima, is the one thing neither time nor death can remove in connection with the life of Jimmie McKinney.

There, in faded lettering, is the sentence imposed by the court of Allen county fifty-four years ago. There is recorded the debt Jimmie McKinney spent more than half a century in settling. With it all Lima, no one could be found on Christmas morning to claim the body of the aged prisoner—no one of his flesh and blood appeared to mourn, and less than a half-dozen citizens had any recollection of the crime which cost Jimmie McKinney 54 of the entire 77 years he spent upon this earth.

Officials of the State Hospital for Criminal Insane, where the man was incarcerated when the end came, attempted to find someone who could recall the case, who could relate details in connection with it. Slowly the story came out. One aged resident told of this or that incident in connection with it; another added a detail long forgotten; until finally, as though piecing together the fragments of a fiction story or a tale of love, and hate, and jealousy and distrust the life-story of Jimmie McKinney, Ohio's oldest prisoner, stood out, complete in every detail.

An attempt was made to secure McKinney's liberty when he was first placed on trial, witness being introduced to show that he was insane for months before the murder, that the good name of his wife could not be impugned and that no rational man would have found any cause for jealousy in the friendship existing between her and Charles Daly. The insanity plea failed of weight with the judge and members of the jury.

When Jimmie McKinney first appeared at the penitentiary he was accepted as a dangerous criminal, and one entitled to few privileges. As the months rolled by officials and guards grew to believe him eccentric. At the end of three years there could no longer be a doubt but the man was bereft of mental power, and a hopeless imbecile. Yet Jimmie McKinney was still alive, and the state of Ohio had demanded that so long as there was breath in his body he should be confined behind prison bars.

On September 11, 1877, following a close examination by several physicians, McKinney was transferred to the Columbus State hospital. There he remained, morose, sullen, yet never violating the rules of the institution and showing no inclination to cause anyone about him the least trouble or discomfort. His mind apparently a blank, days came and went with no change in his condition. Relatives had ceased to visit him; Lima citizens had lost track of Mrs. McKinney, other crimes came to claim their attention—and they, along with the world, forgot Jimmie McKinney.

On August 12, 1915, about the time the new state hospital for criminal insane was completed, Jimmie McKinney, bowed by the weight of 72 years, was led to a train bound for the town in which his downfall had occurred, not as a free man, but to serve the remainder of his days in the payment of the debt he owed society. If he knew that he was returning to the scenes of his boyhood, back to the place in which he had once been a happy and respected citizen, he gave no visible sign. He was infirm, almost helpless, when he came under the kindly care of that prince of humanitarians—Superintendent Charles H. Clark, of the Lima State Hospital.

Then came five years in that institution. Dr. Clark sought interviews with the old man hoping hereby to shed a little sunshine into a life so long devoid of it. But Jimmie McKinney sat in the same stupor and as oblivious to those about him as had marked each and every day of his life since he was transferred from the penitentiary away back in 1877.

"He showed plainly that he was demented," Dr. Clark told me the other day in speaking of McKinney. "Although he was not violent, his case was very advanced. It was probably his advanced age, however, that caused him to be so quiet, and to refuse even to attempt to carry on a conversation. When he committed the crime for which he was sentenced to the penitentiary he was probably violently intoxicated. I have never been able to learn, such a condition, coupled with an almost uncontrollable temper as he is said to have developed when jealousy first began to creep into his heart, led him, quite probably, to commit the murder. He was the oldest man in point of years in the hospital. In point of years served as a prisoner I understand he holds the state record.

In the big auditorium of the state hospital guards and nurses who had served all night, looking after the hundreds of patients under their care, stopped for a moment to gaze upon a Christmas tree. Patients granted the freedom of that part of the institution laughed gleefully and entered into the spirit of the day as happily as the little ones who were arising with the dawn in the city nearby and scurrying for stockings at the hearthstone.

Up the main corridor of the hospital walked a weary doctor who had spent an all-night vigil among Ohio's unfortunates, smiling a Yuletide greeting to other attendants hurrying about their duties. On into the main office he passed and to the great register upon which is recorded the names of those buried—most of them for the remainder of their days—in a place provided by the people of Ohio for their mentally afflicted.

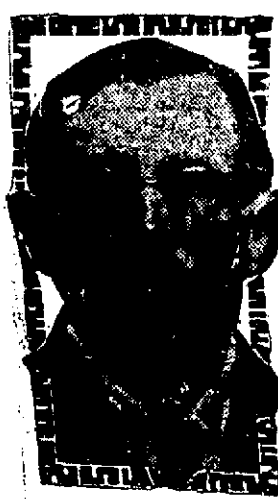

And as the sun rose on Christmas morning and all the world felt the peace that passeth understanding, the physician wrote this receipt to the state of Ohio, to society and to mankind at large—
"JIMMIE MCKINNEY—DEAD."

This is another of the interesting stories for which Howard Burba, former Lima newspaper man, is noted. He is now Sunday editor of The Dayton News. This article is printed thru the courtesy of that paper.

This Medicine Recommended by a Doctor

DR. J. H. WAGNER

When a doctor uses a medicine himself besides prescribing it to his patients, he must know that it has merit. This is what Dr. J. H. Wagner, a prominent physician of Skate, Kentucky, has to say about Dr. Hartman's well-known remedy, PE-RU-NA: "I have used PE-RU-NA myself for catarrh, bloating and given it to others for catarrh, bloating after eating and other ailments. It has proved a success in all cases with old and young men and women. All speak well of PE-RU-NA. It is the best of all tonics."

Dr. Wagner, out of the fullness of his own personal experience, for the good of all sick and suffering, recommends a medicine which he knows to be good. You may be sure a doctor would not endanger his professional reputation by endorsing PE-RU-NA unless satisfied beyond a doubt of its value.

Whether your trouble be a cough or a cold, or a more subtle catarrhal affection of the stomach, bowels or other organs, give PE-RU-NA a trial. The immediate improvement which you will see will satisfy you beyond a doubt that PE-RU-NA is what you need. PE-RU-NA may be purchased anywhere in tablet or liquid form.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Brest Tea at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teaspoon full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus driving a cold from the system.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

Just before the holidays we accepted agencies for several makes of phonographs which we do not regularly represent. This was done to help supply the extraordinary demand for phonographs this year.

We now have a few of these instruments left that we are going to dispose of in order to specialize on our regular lines. These instruments are new instruments, not damaged, shopworn or used. The prices quoted on these machines are from 10% to 15% lower than the present retail prices on these particular makes. We are unable to advertise the manufacturer's name. Besides the saving of 10% or 15% in the cost price to you, we include 10 records of your own selection free with this offer.

"Sir, I wish to make your daughter my wife," said the young man. The old man hesitated. "Huh? you better see her mother first!" he said.

"I've seen her mother, and it does not make any difference—I'd take the chances," exclaimed the youth with all the ardor of honest love.

An advertising man who returned recently from the Orient says the Japanese merchants and manufacturers who have occasion to make use of printer's ink are not disposed to limit themselves to dull, prosaic statements concerning the excellence of their wares. Among the entertaining bits that the traveler noticed in his study of Japanese advertising are these:

"Parcels done up with such loving as a wife bestows upon her husband."

"The print of our books is clear as crystal; the matter charming as a singing girl."

"Customers are treated as politely as by rival steamship companies."

"Our silks and satins are as smooth as a lady's cheeks and colored like the rainbow."

Four-year-old Hilda had been to play with her cousins, two romping, boisterous boys, who had teased her sadly the whole time.

When she came back and was telling her father all about her visit, she said:

"Daddy, every night when Jack and Roger say their prayers they ask God to make them good boys."

"That's quite right," said her father.

"But," she added, significantly, "He hasn't done it yet!"

EMPLOYMENT HEAD URGES RETURNED SOLDIERS TO KEEP THEIR INSURANCE

A group of numerous returned soldiers of this city in discontinuing government insurance taken out during the war, is severely censured by Dick Stone, head of the employment bureau of the American Red Cross.

"I cannot understand why the boys should drop their insurance at this time when the new policy of Uncle Sam regarding allotments, etc., has been put into effect," Stone said Saturday.

A large number of ex-service men here have discontinued their army insurance, Stone claimed after he had made a survey of the insurance situation among former service men.

Various angles of the new allotment system established by the government recently will be explained to any man upon communication with the employment bureau, Stone says. He advises that men considering renewal of their insurance apply at the local bureau at once.
